My Lover - By Alexis

He is as hot as the sun.

He is as fun as a puppy.

He is as happy as his older sister.

He is as loving as his mother.

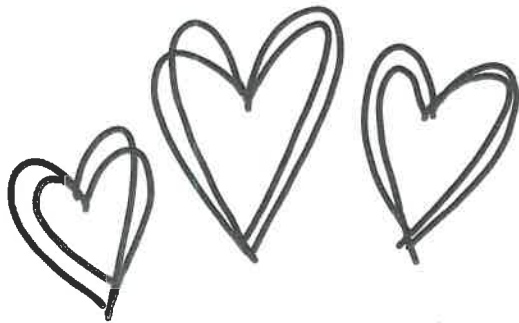

He is as smart as a dog.

He is as pretty as flowers.

He is as funny as his little sister.

He is as caring as his father.

He is as fast as lightning.

There's No Hope - By Alexis

I'm dead ok,

I'm not ok,

I need time,

To be ok,

For life ok,

There's no hope,

For me,

Hope.

EVERY - By Alexis

Everything that I loved is gone and there's no hope for me.

Very rarely, I got new clothes.

Each thing someone said to me,
it's all ways mean.

Really I get to go to my friends house.

Yesterday you were here, but today you're here anymore.

Ashton - By Nikita

Ashton is as funny as a clown,

He is as kind as a doctor,

He is as friendly as a cow,

Ashton is as dumb as a blonde.

Simone - Nikita

S mart and supportive

I nspirational

M other

O pen minded

E motional wreck

Cats - Hudson

Cat are crazy and also lazy,
Don't make them mad, black cats
are bad,
And they got really mad, when they are not sad.

Similies - By Hudson

Crazy as a crazy ponies,
Full as a cloud,
Feared more than a lion,
Quiet as a mouse,
Wet like snow,
Faster than Usain Bolt,
Cute as a bird,
Cool as a cucumber,
Fat as a pig,
Loud like an elephant.

Footy - By Dylan

Footy shines like a diamond, it is played like a beautiful painting and is as elegant as a feather, it finds a way to shine through the darkest of times like a diamond in the ruff,
the strikes stand like a giant,
this game is like a community.

Musa - By Dylan

Oh salty little Musa,
Oh when his smile turns upside down,
He makes the worst of sounds,
He squawks, screams and sobs,
Musa screams,
When he fibs and fumbles it's not nice to see.

Very Mad Musa - By Dylan

Bill Cipher - By Sam

As smart as Einstein,

As evil as Hitler,

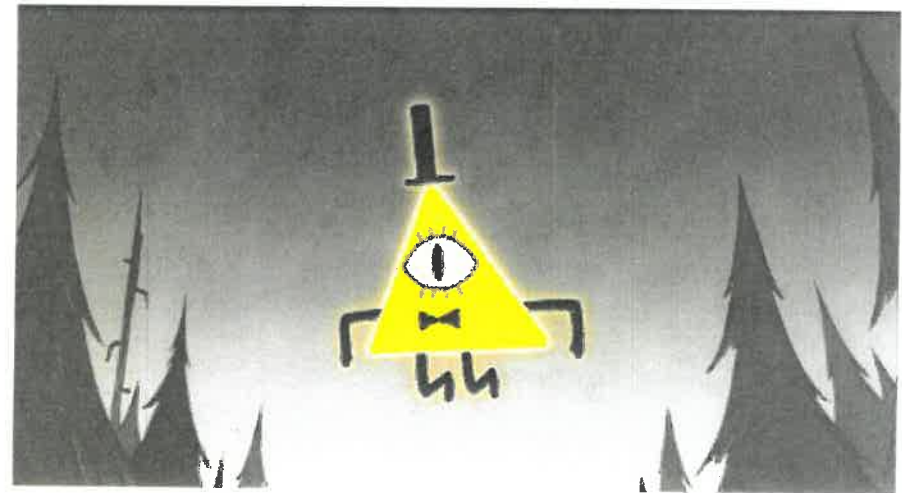

Tricky as a fox,

Sly as a snake,

Horrible like World War II,

Cruel as venom,

Monstrous like your nightmares.

By Drew

Number 1

Thing of evil desert land horror within nevermore night's black soul unbroken still on eyes dreaming floating lifted nevermore.

Number 2

As sad as a ghost,
As pissed off as a skeleton,
As normal as a enderman,
As quick to to assume as an iron
golem,
As enraged as a warden,
As peaceful as a cow.

Number 3

Some snakes are found in many places,

Northern hemisphere is one of these snakes,

A snake is reptilien and there are lots of snakes,

King cobras is one of these snakes,

Even a boomslang, a small snake,
is deadly.

Hunting - By Sam

Night goes by so quickly,
You call your friends to say hi,
Whitetail deer hide in the grass,
While big black bears go past,
The mallards are in the lake,
The hunters are starting to debate.

Jeff - By Sam

There once was a man named Jeff,
In Maths he kept getting f's,
His teacher said stop frowning,
And to stop getting down,
So he left school so he won't get f's.

Jeff - By Logan

There was once a man named Jeff,
He was a little bit deaf,
Not every word he heard,
Not even the little bird,
And he's got one arm the left.

Queen - By Deakin

Quite and Unhappy sometimes Excited
Even Nice

Laptop - By Deakin

I want my laptop,
My teacher wont give it back,
Im feeling angry.

Mouse - By Deakin

I threw a mouse,
Out of my house,
It went flat,
In front of my house.

Angry Little Man - By William

Angry little Musa,
so salty at cricket.
So lost with the ball,
while he cant hit the wicket.

He denies that he's bad,
And it makes him so mad.

Poor little Musa,
He's always looking so down.

When he can't hit the wickets, he has a big frown.

Cold - By William

As cold as the night,
Lit by the moonlight.

Milo - By William

Milo, amazing as a Zooper Dooper,
You scoop it out and it looks as good as a milo,
You drop the scoop in the cup and it looks as good as a milo.
You add the milk and it looks even better than a normal milo,
And the taste, amazing as an amazing milo.

The Haiku - By Logan

Winter is going
The ice is melting slowly
Sun is coming up

Spring has come around
Growing leaves, green grass again
Warmer days are back

Summer hot days here
The ocean welcoming us
Fishing all over

It is Autumn now
the leaves are falling again
Hot days turning cold

Cricket - By Musa

Cricket is as perfect as the most expensive ruby,

Batting is as elegant as a ballerina dancing,

Bowling is as efficient as education,

Fielding is as clean as a whistle,

11 players are as balanced as a scale,

The late cut is as beautiful as a newly made ground,

The cricket pitch is as round as a circle,

The in swinging yorker is as sublime as a new car,

Direct hits are as precise as a 90-degree angle,

Cricket is like the meaning of life.

Musa - By Musa

My name is Musa,

I like to play the Xbox,

I enjoy cricket.

Quail - By Musa

Queen quail is,

Unanimous so,

Astonishing very,

Intelligent,

Luxurious.

The colour Green - By Stella

I like the colour green,
It's the colour of a bean,
It can be forest green,
Or a sloppy green,
Even if i don't go anywhere,
I see green everywhere,
I like the colour green,
Its the colour i have seen,
Whenever i walk outside,
Green is always by my side.

The Pond - By Stella

The pond was quiet,
As i was reading a book,
Then a frog jumped by.

Tsunami - By Chloe

The school was shut down,
Because of a Tsunami,
It was all destroyed.

Will and the guitar - By Chloe

There was a young fellow names
Will,
Who was widely considered a drill,
He once learnt the guitar,
But he didnt get far,
As he just didnt have any skill.

Zebra - By Hollie

Zebras are Energetic creative creatures with Beautiful strips with legs that Run as fast as
A cheetah.

Miss Bow - By Hollie

She's as sweet as her cup of tea,

She's as nice as a sunflower,

She's as helpful as a breath of air,

She's as pale as a ghost,

She's as beautiful as a sunset,

She's as smart as Albert Einstein,

She's as blonde as a golden lab,

She's as stylish as a model,

She's as positive as her COVID

She's as cool as ice,

She's as chill as an icy pole,

She's as cuddly as a pillow.

3 years ago, bushfires rolled across Southern New South Wales and Northern Victoria. It burnt across 14.5 million hectares, including the town of Bunyip, only 22.7 kilometres away from Neerim. If you went to Neerim South Primary in grade 6, you might remember how school closed down and we had to go to Warragul primary for a couple days because Neerim was locked down for that time. It's generally agreed on that the fire was started around 3:30pm by a lightning strike near Cooma, in the Victorian high country. It rapidly spread up the country, covering up to 35 kilometres in a single day. It stopped moving up around the centre of New South Wales, with some gentle coaxing from the CFA. Around 120 people died in the fires, which is tragic and is the second biggest death toll in any Australian Bushfire within this century, second only to Black Saturday. So what's the best way to stop something like this happening again? Firstly, if you're out and about, make sure that anything you have to do with fire is safe and be really careful. Second, make sure any 'green waste' is disposed of correctly and is tidy. Last, check the bushfire ratings the CFA provides, and have a 'go bag' ready to go. As we discussed, bushfires can be deadly and very dangerous, so having precautions there can be super helpful and could save your life.

Nowadays, it's a very popular opinion that everybody should have an electric car, for the better of the environment. However, I don't agree with this, or at least until there is better infrastructure to support it. I'll go over the electricity issue, the cost issue, and the charging issue. Let's get into it.

My first argument is that we still use coal to make electricity and it's actually more expensive than petrol at the moment. Electric cars use around 250 kWh of electricity to charge, which equates to about 133 kilos of coal. In contrast, a tank of petrol is around 48 kilos of crude oil. In other words, if you are trying to save the environment by buying an electric car, you are actually destroying the environment more. Until, at least, we have more widespread sustainable energy sources like solar farms.

My second argument is that electric cars cost a lot of money. A LOT. The average post-tax wage in Australia is $67,860. The average generic petrol car costs $44,557 new. That's 65.66% of the average wage. A pretty achievable target if you have the patience to save for a few years. How much is the average price for a tesla? $102,000! If I asked you to cough up 102 grand right now what would you say? That's 151.3% of the average wage, and 228.92% of the average petrol car price. For the little benefit you get out of the tesla, it's an absolute waste of money.

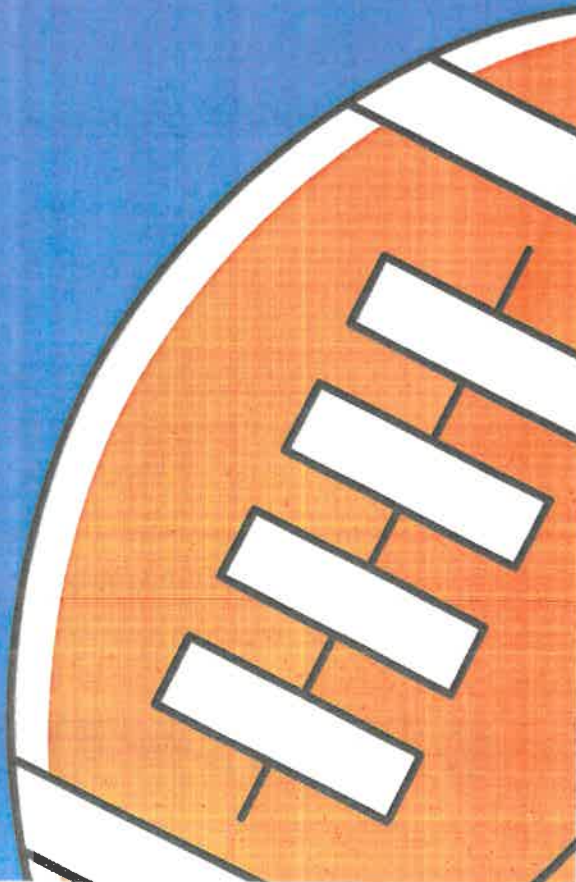

My final argument is that the charging infrastructure is terrible. Excluding home chargers, there are around 60 public tesla chargers in Australia, as opposed to around 7000 petrol stations. If the infrastructure is this bad, surely we can't be expected to have electric cars since we can barely charge them publicly.

In conclusion, I'd like to state that the environmental impact is not only worse, but they cost more. Also, there is no apparent effort to provide charging infrastructure. At this point, we should not be expected to have electric cars. I hope you've found my reasoning logical and you agree. Thanks for your time.

ON A DAY LIKE NO OTHER A TEENAGE BOY WAS GOING ON A HIKE IN THE BUSH WHEN OUT OF NOWHERE A MAN JUMPED OUT OF A BUSH AND SCARED THE SOUL OUT OF THE BOY. HI THE MAN SAID MY NAMES GARRY AND I NEED YOUR HELP TO FIND MY SON. WE WERE ON A HIKE LIKE YOU AND HE WANDERED OFF AND NOW I CAN' T FIND HIM. PLEASE CALM DOWN SIR MY NAMES MITCH WHERE DID YOU LAST SEE HIM. UM OVER NEAR THE TOILETS AND THAT'S IT. I RECALL CORRECTLY I THINK I SAW A YOUNG BOY AND HE JUST RAN BACK TOWARDS THE CAR PARK. LET'S GO QUICK BEFORE HE WANDERS OFF AND GETS MORE LOST.

One night the sky was filled with lots of pretty colours. It was a very starry night with purple and blue colours. The old lady was inside near her warm and cosy fireplace in her old woode hut next to a beautiful blue lake.

It is like two peas in a pod,
They are as cool as a cucumber,
It is like a place where i am safe,
They are as chill as ice
It is like they are my life if i'm sad, they are like the wind,always there it is like they are here all the way,
as they guide me to success,
it is like i am never alone,
My family.

One a day like no other a teenage boy was going on a hike in the bush when out of nowhere a man jumped out of a bush and scared the soul out of the boy.Hi the man said my names Garry and i need your help to find my son.We were on a hike like you and he wandered off and now i can't find him. Please calm down sir my names Mitch where did you last see him. Um over near the toilets and that's it.I recall correctly i think i saw a young boy and he just ran back towards the car park.Let's go quick before he wanders off and gets more lost.

One night, Riley, Kendal and Sarah had a sleepover at Sarah's house. It's got late, they were gossiping and having long conversations about school, boys and girls they don't like pretty much everything. It came to about 2 am and they realised they weren't tired. Riley came up with the idea to pull and all nighter so they did. They even went on a walk in the morning to freshen up.

The locked door

One day me and my mates decided to go explore the old asylum down the road. This asylum is almost 300 years old and was abandoned in the 1950s because one of the mental patients had an episode and forced them to shut down. After that day there has been a locked door at the end of a said hallway to be cursed. People say once you enter the hallway you can't leave. No matter how fast or hard you run it is as if it's always a couple steps in front of you but you just can't reach the exit.

I could hear the trucks booming as they went past and the wind, the wind blowing and the people of town wandering. I could see the fog in the hills looming and the rain drizzling from the grey, gloomy clouds. It smelt of fresh bakery bread and the exhaust of the trucks. I met my mates at the park across the road from the asylum. We talked for a while then crossed the road.

The minute I stepped foot on the sidewalk I felt a sudden chill down my spine. We looked up at the asylum, then to each other, before we stepped forward and entered the gate.

We looked up at the asylum, then to each other, before we stepped forward and entered the gate. We walked up the old beaten path and slowly opened the door. There was a cloud of dust and old material shards that blew in our faces. The first smells that woft into my face was the scent of musk and decaying flesh. We slowly made our way down hallways and down some stairs. It was all pretty normal until I saw a hallway with a green door at the end.

The only problem was that it was locked. It wasn't like a normal modern day lock, it was like a lock that you could peer through. I slowly walked up the halway I noticed a quiet voice whisper "No. Don't come closer." I kept going because I thought that surely it was the fumes. As I hit the first painting I felt a weird sensation fall over my body. As I peered through the lock I saw another eye meet mine. I jumped back in fright and turned around to start running but I noticed that the pictures on the wall were different.

As I peered through the lock I saw another eye meet mine. I jumped back in fright and turned around to start running but I noticed that the pictures on the wall were different. They were older, but before I could get a good look at them I heard a rattle. It was the lock opening. I started running but it was like I was on a treadmill or I was in water. It didn't matter how hard I ran, I couldn't get to the end. I thought to myself 'I shouldnt of split away from my friends, I should've listened to the rumours.' I tried to run again but it was too late. I felt a cold set of hands grab my legs and I hit my head hard on the ground. I tried to stay awake but it went black and I couldn't move...

Parents should not have access to your phone...

Parents should not have access to their children's social media heres why. Firstly, theres more trust between you and your child. Secondly, children might have private content on there social media. Finally, it teaches children more responsibility.

Firstly, theres more trust between your child according to verywellfamily.com children feel more trusted if there parents trust them to do what they want on social media. This means that you will have a healthy relationship with your child as you can see you will gain more trust with your child if you don't snoop on there phone.

Secondly, children might have private content on there social media an so children might have private conversations with there friends that they don't want you to know about. Clearly its better if you give them privacy when there using social media. Overall how would you like it if someone else wasn't giving you privacy on your phone?

Finally, it teaches children more responsibility like i have a lot of responsibility knowing that my parents are not looking through my phone and social media. Obviously they will be responsible doing other things as well as checking social media in other words they will be a good responsible child.

In conclusion, parents should not have access to their child's social media as you can see theres more trust between your child. Secondly, children might have private content on there social media. Finally, it teaches children more responsibilities.

One day I was at the beach with family because we go once a year to Phillip Island. On this one day me and my sister were playing with the sand and making castles. Then we saw a girl and a boy playing as well we decided to play with them. So we made massive holes and filled them up with water and made mini pools. Then the boy goes fishing and he catches a squid! We take a look and go back playing. We ended up hanging out for the whole day. We never saw them

Should Parents Have Access To Their Child's Phone?

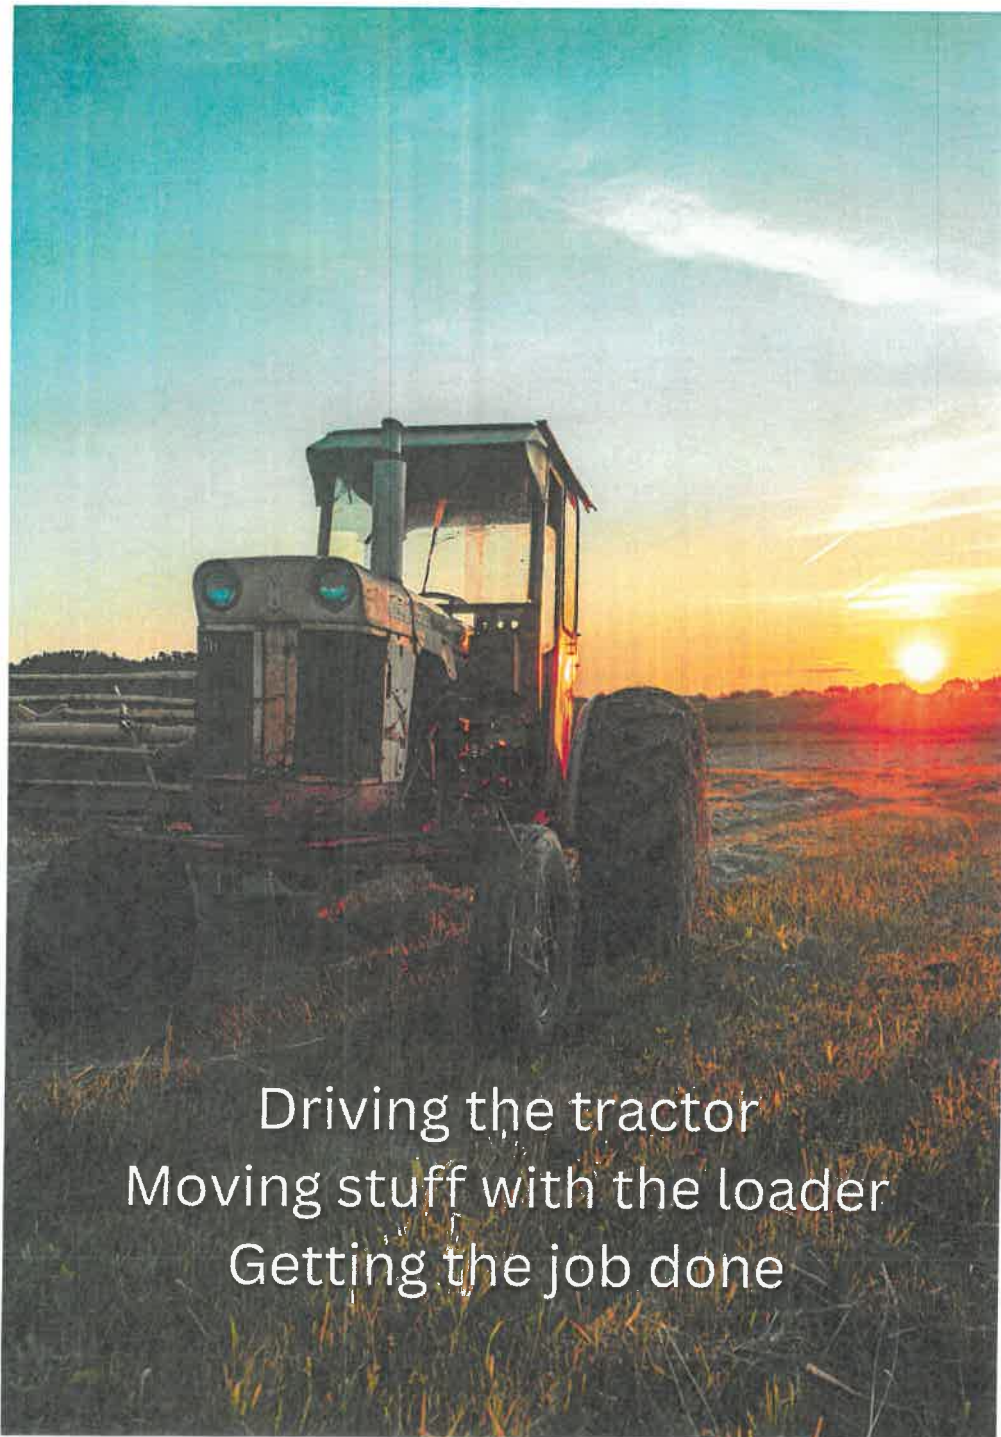

Is this seriously a debate? Of course they shouldn't! It is absolutely ridiculous to think first hand that parents should be allowed to snoop through their child's social media/phone. People right from the start should have instantly thought that parents having access to their child's social media builds distrust in their relationship, next, invading the child's privacy denies them self independence. Not only that, children need privacy, just like adults do.

First and foremost, parents poking around their child's phone usually develops suspicion in their relationship. Distrust between the child and the parents can make the kid feel paranoid about what they're doing on social media. This can also make the son/daughter feel like they don't have control over what they text. For example, if your friend tells you something over instagram or snapchat that they don't want anyone else to know, your parents might go through your phone and find out about it, which puts a lot of mistrust with you and your parents. This may affect more than one person as well.

In addition, invading the child's privacy prevents them from being independent. When a kid is in their adulthood, they need to be independent and not rely on other people as much. Young adults are going to struggle in the real world if their parents kept sneaking on their phones. Also, it has been proven with more than a decade of research, that parental invasion, that parental invasion does NOT work. If anything, it makes the issue worse for the child's privacy.

Third and finally, kids need just as much privacy and seclusion as their parents do. These days people talk about gender equality. They should also be talking about age equality for certain things, like phone privacy. Just because us kids want some time to ourselves on our phones, does not mean we are hiding something. Parents should stop thinking the worst for what we are doing on our phones, and instead think about the positives for why they don't need to check our phones.

As you can see, it is clearly obvious that parents should not feel the need to check our phones/social media ever. This is because parents having access to their child's phone can cause a very unhealthy relationship between them, invading the child's phone denies the kid of self independence, and finally, children need time to themselves, just like their parents do. This without a doubt appears that parents should stop looking at their sons/daughters phone.

The Door

My fear is overwhelming. I knew I had to go through the door but my arm muscles refused to lift my hand up and turn the rusty door handle only a centimeter in front of me. There was an awful stench of blood in the air and a muffled moaning sound was coming from the other side of the old wooden door, that made my skin prickle and the hairs on the back of my neck rise. I wanted desperately to turn and run from this horrible place, this horrible door, but every second I delayed outside the door was a second too late. I miserably raise my shaky hand to touch the ice cold door knob and cautiously begin to creep open the door. I hesitantly step through the doorway and into the blackness beyond, to see something more terrifying and horrible than you could ever imagine. Something that makes my legs go weak and collapse under me. The last thing I hear is of myself screaming.

Ivan the 4th Vasilyevich

Tsar Ivan the 4th Vasilyevich was born in Russia on the 25th of August 1530. In 1533 his father Vasily 3rd died and he was made grand prince of Moscow at age 3. When he grew up he proclaimed himself tsar of Russia on 16th of January 1547 and was a good ruler apart from when he burned and pillaged his own towns, killed a bunch of people and bashed his son's head in with his staff but apart from that good ruler on the 28th of March 1584 he died of a stroke while playing a game of chess and he ruled Russia for 50 years, longer than any other rulers of Russia the end.

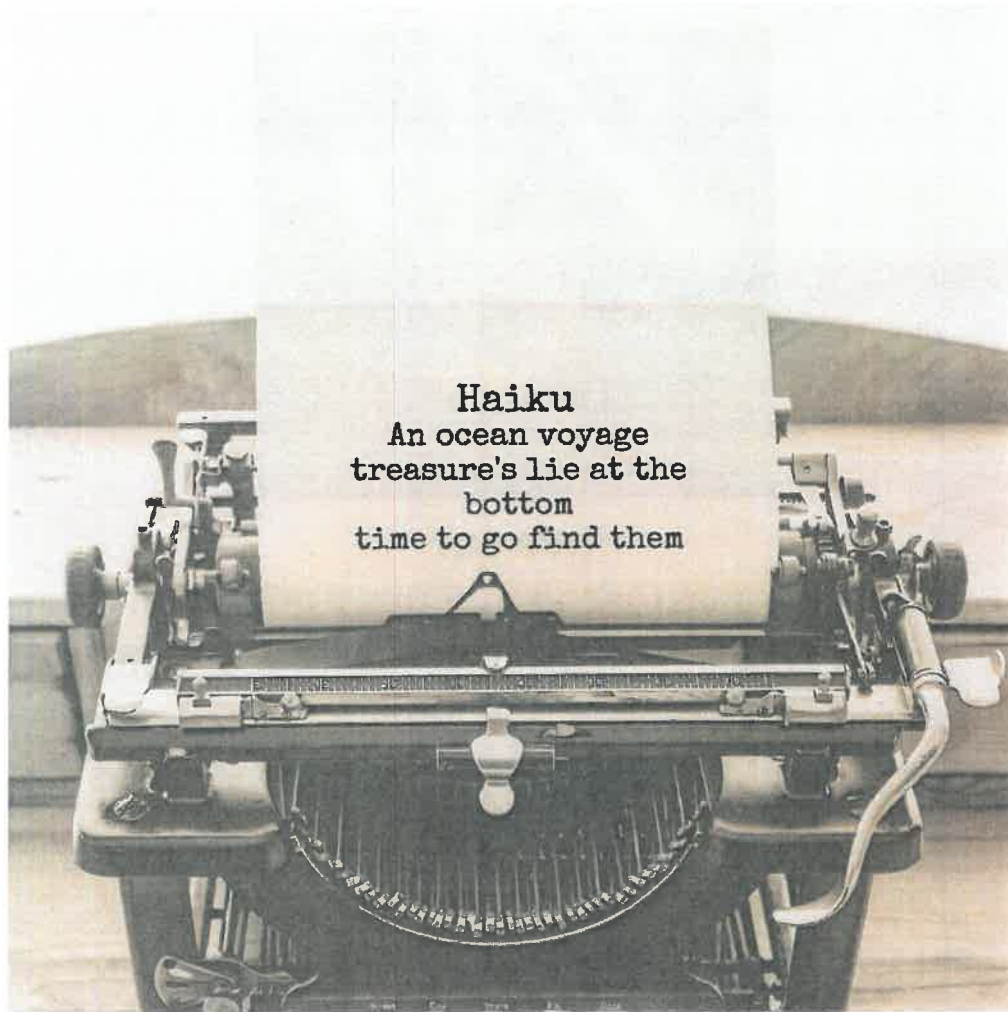

The man with the moustache

I ran down the long dark alleyways of a city in terror with the sound of dogs and men shouting behind me. I turned a corner and ran into the street, it was a ghost town. No one was in the streets; everyone had barricaded themselves inside their houses out of fear, of the men chasing me.

I looked around for somewhere to run to but there was nowhere to run, almost at bridge over the river. I sprinted towards it, the dogs and the men's shouts became louder and louder than BANG! gunshots fired at me.

I made it over the bridge and saw giant red walls and some more alleyways. I could make my escape, through there I ran into the alley but to my horror it was a dead end. I was cornered by the men and the last thing I saw was a man with a moustache staring at me through a window as I was shot and killed.

the police were taking samples and then the house literally and evilly sucked them into the very house wall itself, but after and i wont ever forget this either, the house spoke, literally vocalising: "ahhh how delightful" i quickly backed away but then the flesh covered itself back up with plaster and became normal again, but i was not fooled, then one of the police officer's ran out screaming. through the open door, i saw that the house had made another piece of furniture. in the kitchen on the stove, was a bright red kettle that turned to its disguise form the moment i looked at it. i then ran and ran and ran, that all happened a long time ago the house still haunts my dreams. i haven't seen the red eyed kid since that night and i hope i never see that awful disgusting flesh house ever,ever again.

but as i write this i can hear the screams getting louder. God forgive me for my part in this story god, forgive us all. To whoever finds this diary, dont go within a mile of the house on 12 mangrove road canada for that house is well and truly..... the devil himself. !!!!! this next page is the only proof of it's existence

13 January 2001

I've heard about a lot of haunted houses.

Some have monster's, some are alive.

But I don't think I'm going in another haunted house ever again after the realization of my very own house.

14 January 2001

My house at first, was beautiful, it had lots of armchairs, couches and my bedroom, my sweet bedroom, had the most comfortable bed ever.

This house was the most beautiful house ever... until it drove me completely insane!

15 January 2001

It all started when I began to hear a strange tick, not the tick of a clock, but it was a tick I had never heard before, it was as if the wood itself was...moving. No, no, no, no, no, that was absurd until I realized, this tick was getting louder

16 January 2001

Then it happened. I was making some coffee, when I realized there was a red stain on the wall.

I wish I never touched that stain.

Because doing so was my death sentence

17 January 2001

The red stain on the wall then, to my utter and absolute horror... grew all by itself, The moment it did, a ringing in my ear began, it got louder and louder and louder. The stain, was not just on the wall, it had completely covered my whole house!!

18 January 2001

It was then that I realized what this red was made of... rotting flesh. Upon this realization I screamed and ran to the door. But then, on the top of the stairs, was a child whose eyes had been replaced by the red flesh of the house. How did this happen? I'd been living in this house for 50 years and this had never happened before, until I realized... my mother, father, grandfather and grandmother had all died in this very house. This house wasn't just alive and made of flesh, it was the most purest evil ever in the history of this world.

undated entry 2001

the boy with flesh for eyes then pounced, i dodged and pulled at the door as it was locked it then suddenly broke off it's hinges, and my house let out an enormous scream, before i ran the child from earlier gave a smile that was pure and clear, EVIL, i ran away from that house as far as my legs could carry me, i called the police about it and showed them the house i will never forget what happened next

Kawhi Leonard bringing home Toronto's first ever title since 1995

MAXWELL PLUMMER, CROSSOVER, SEPT 8, 2022

Kawhi Leonard shocked the hometown of Toronto, as the Raptors were going forward to play 1 more game against the 76ers to bring home their first ever chip. The series was 4-2 and Kawhi was their leading scorer averaging 21.2 points per game. During game 4, Raptors fans were worrying as the 76ers looked like they were going to pull away with a 2 point lead only having 4.2 secs left on the shot clock. With the Raptors only having 1 possession left they passed the ball over to Kawhi and shot over 2 people in the corner to win it all.

"As long as you give your best effort, I feel like that's all you can do" - Kawhi Kawhi Leonard was born in L.A. cared for by Mark Leonard and Kim Robertson. When Leonard turned 5 his parents filed a divorce which caused him to move away to California with his mother. Kawhi as a teenager attended Canyon Springs and joined the basketball team as a freshman. Later that year other schools saw his potential/ talent and recruited Kawhi to Riverside California. Just as he arrived he discovered that his father was shot and killed in a car wash. On the day of 2008 when he died he swore to himself to make his father proud and make it to the NBA.

Mystery

Malaysia Airlines Flight 370 registration 9M-MRO. 227 passengers and 12 flight crew missing.

Malaysian flight 370 was on its way from Kuala Lumpur international airport to Beijing Capital Airport. Around 38 minutes after takeoff when the flight was over the South China sea. The aircraft lost connection to ATC.

They were still being tracked by military radar for another hour. It then left radar range 200 nautical miles (370km;230mi) ; the seven-month search of this site cost roughly $34 million but was unsuccessful in finding any debris.

Breakthrough technology could solve the world's biggest aviation mystery after the disappearance of the flight MH370.

Robin Williams dies after battling depression.

Robin Williams is found dead in his Californian home on the 11th of August 2014.

Mitchell Dowling, Neerim South
Friday the 9th of September 2022

At the age of 63, Robin Williams was found dead in his house in Paradise Cay, California. Williams took his own life after a long battle with depression.

He commit suicide due to his disease called Lewy body disease(LBD). LBD is a disorder that affects movement, behaviour, and mood, which people predict led to his depression.

Before his death, he had a very successful life and career. His popular movies were Flubber, good morning Vietnam and many more. He got 21 awards including the golden globe and an Academy award. His last few movies were Aboutly anything, a Night at the Museum and A Merry Friggin' Christmas.

He was born on July 21st 1951 and died on 11 august 2014 he had 3 children. He started acting in the 1980s in his debut popye he was 29 when he started. His most known quote is "Good morning Vietnam" from 1987.

Williams's death made people realise that they need to check in with their friends because it is not always obvious when someone is struggling. Steven Spielberg said, "Robin was a lightning storm of comic genius and our laughter was the thunder that sustained him. He was a pal and I can't believe he's gone".

The Giver Chapter 24 - Written by Jack Scadden

Today we all gather at the hall for the ceremonies, the main one is the ceremony of 12. It's always held in December and is a 2-day event and everyone has those days off for holidays. Some of my friends are Elevens and are moving into Twelves, I can't wait to see what jobs they will be assigned.

Ceremony begins, it is exciting as the children are given jobs for life. My friend Fiona is 18 and is given a job in House of the Old. Next is Jonas, he is not called! The Chief Elder calls Pierre next, number 20. Everyone looks shocked.

The rest of the ceremony is a blur, I can only think "Is Jonas going to be released"? Then the Chief Elder makes a huge announcement! Jonas will be the next Receiver of Memory. I am so surprised, it has been many years since a Receiver was announced. I wonder if Jonas can handle this?

Once the audience hears what Jonas' job will be, we all chant his name. I watch Jonas sit back with his family and he looks calm. I think he will be a good receiver. I can't help but think of the previous chosen Receiver who was released and hope we don't suffer painful memories again.

Dear Arjay,

How are you, I'm doing absolutely awesome. Just checking in haven't seen you in a long time brother.

I have been busy doing work and fishing, we should go fishing some time and crack open a few drinks (Lemonade). I also got most improved in football and I'm excited for next season.

How have your boys been and how has the music writing going?

I am looking forward to catching up with you at christmas and hearing all about it.

All the best Arjay,

Chernobyl Explosion, 30 people dead.

Ukraine Nuclear Plant explodes, exposing millions of people to radiation.

Jack Scadden. Longwarry North, Sept 8, 2022

The explosion in Chernobyl, Ukraine happened on April 26th 1986, at 1:23:58 am. RBMK Reactor 4 went out of control during a low-power test causing the explosion and the radiation in the atmosphere. 31 people died from blast trauma, some people straight away died from the radiation whilst some people slowly died in the coming months. 134 people were confirmed to have Acute Radiation Syndrome, of which a total of 31 people died.

The reason why RBMK Reactor 4 exploded was because it had a dangerous large positive void coefficient. This caused it to go out of control, and release a huge amount of energy.

A survivor of Chernobyl who was 10 years old, is 46 now, meaning it wasn't that long ago. Sasha was a worker at the power plant, who was on a night shift when the explosion occurred. Yuvchenko said, "There was a heavy thud. A couple of seconds later, I felt a wave coming through the room. The big concrete walls were bent like rubber." Yuvchenko went on to say that; "You don't feel anything at the time... After about an hour, I started to vomit uncontrollably."

These days you can visit Chernobyl as a tourist attraction as it may interest other people. A HBO miniseries named 'Chernobyl' caused a spark of interest in visiting the city.

Although you are still allowed to visit the site, it is still uninhabitable. There are still over 100 people remaining in the area of the radiation. Once they pass away, no one will be able to move in, however areas bordering the zone are safe to live in.

Why we need a classroom pet

Most people love animals, so I think that all classrooms should have a class pet. I will be arguing that observing and caring for an animal instills a sense of responsibility, pets help to build self-esteem, and that the presence of animals can lessen the tension in the classroom. I believe that these arguments will make you agree that all classrooms should have a class pet.

If you were observing and caring for an animal, it would instill a sense of responsibility.

As Gail F. Melson, ph.D and professor Emerita of child development once said; "Caring for them (Pets) encourages children to think outside of themselves and become responsible for another being's welfare." We give them food and water, we keep them safe and it becomes a daily chore which all make-up the responsibility of keeping pets in the classroom. If we are responsible for keeping our pet in the classroom, we will learn to be more careful and responsible.

Pets help to build self-esteem in children. According to a March 2017 study at the Waltham Petcare Science Institute, "youngsters with pets tend to have greater self-esteem, less loneliness, and enhanced social skills." Having a pet will provide them with emotional support and feeling less lonely. It would make students self-esteem improve because the pet provides them with support.

Studies show that the presence of animals tends to lessen tension in the classroom. A study reported by the national institute of health in the USA showed; "Kids who read to real animals showed better social skills and more sharing, cooperation, and volunteering. They also had fewer behavioural problems." Reading to dogs calm children with ADHD helping to focus their attention and students with Autism Spectrum Disorder were also calmer when they were playing with guinea pigs. Animals come up to the students and want to be patted, this means the classroom is calmer.

All the evidence I have gathered proves why we should get a classroom pet. My reasons were having a pet instills a sense of responsibility, they help to build self-esteem and finally they can lessen the tension in the classroom. This is why we should get a classroom pet! I now ask you to speak to your own classroom teacher and ask if you can get a classroom pet to help calm other students.

The long descent

Angus is going into the hole in the ground. Angus slipped off the rope and he died. Kelton has to continue on the journey to the cave, as an explorer.

The next thing that happens is when Kelton revives Angus. Angus and Kelton searched the cave.

They find a death trap, spikes on the ground

Angus is the bravest out of them.

He walks through the death trap and dodges all the traps until one of the spikes goes through his leg.

Kelton helps Angus by lifting him up until the spike goes out of his leg. Angus and Kelton find a guy named NATE. Nate uses his healing powers on Angus and Kelton "thank you" said both Angus and Kelton. They continue going through the cave. They walked for hours but they found nothing till finally, they find something amazing - they found gold. Another couple of hours later they found this random guy named Jack. NATE and Jack start to fight they both die but NATE uses his healing powers to revive them both. Then Jack punches NATE, NATE punches Jack back they both die again then NATE revives both of them again. "STOP!!" yelled Kelton "ok" they start to walk till they find another hole in the ground and get out Fin

Nirvana

By Kelton

Nirvana was a late 80s Rock Band founded by the lead singer Kurt Cobain and bassist Krist Novoselic. The band unfortunately only lasted 7 years because he committed suicide. They went through a lot of drummers most notably Chad Channing before recruiting Dave Grohl to be the drummer of Nirvana. Their most played song is Smells like teen spirit released in the album Nevermind in 1991. But the most popular album was Bleach released in 1989. It is their most popular album because I don't know but I love the guitar and drums on almost every single song in Bleach.

the village

It was a beautiful morning in the village of Creaplan in 1853. The sun beaming through the door, birds chirping, wind swaying branches, a 13-year-old boy named Kyle and his parents were sleeping in, nothing could go wrong in a village protected by stone walls.

When all of a sudden BANG!! Gunshots everywhere, the village was being raided by bandits on horses with masks on their faces and guns, machetes and flamethrowers.

Fire raged upon the valley, civilians screaming and running. Kyle couldn't bear to watch so he ran inside and tried to wake his parents but it was already too late. They were dead, covered in their own blood, Kyle shedding tears as he tried to escape but it was no use the bandits were blocking every exit.

Kyle remembered a secret exit that he used from time to time, so he led as many civilians with him as possible, he led them to a small hole in the wall hidden in vines and moss and they all got out injured. They made a shelter where the bandits could never find them again. Kyle sat there remembering his parents' face when they were dead, he wanted to avenge his parents' death so vowed to make the one responsible suffer.
